Price competition may prompt plant location in South

By GARY SCHNEIDER

President of the automotive division of A. O. Smith Corp. Friday announced tentative plans to construct a new production plant in Tennessee to help meet future needs. The division, which also manufactures auto frame plants, in Granite City and Milwaukee, are operating beyond their designed capacity.

The announcement was a direct result of a man who had been attempting to convince the corporation to utilize a 40-acre tract behind the Granite City plant for a new expansion facility.

Paul Kelly, A. O. Smith plant manager in Granite City, said numerous factors played a role in the decision to reject the Granite City site, although A. O. Smith owned the property since the current plant was constructed.

He said a main factor is the business climate in Illinois which is not competitive with other states. "Businesses which succeed are those which have a competitive edge over their competition."

"We are experiencing a decline of business opportunities due to higher wages, workers' compensation benefits, unemployment benefits, fuel availability, environmental considerations and other factors."

"This is a big problem and I feel the prospect of expansion at this location (Granite City) is extremely limited," Kelly stated.

He predicted, "Several years down the road, our competitive position here will have deteriorated to the extent we may not be able to operate in this community, unless something is done quickly. We have an option to buy land at the Tennessee location was taken because of Tennessee's business climate, it's proximity to steel shipping points and several car and truck assembly plants, prevailing wages and the availability of workers and employment insurance," Kelly stressed.

"Our competitors have plants in Canada who enjoy lower steel prices, lower labor rates and a 12 percent favorable exchange rate on the dollar. The A. O. Smith automotive division has lost business to these companies. I do not know if Canada was studied for this plant," Kelly added.

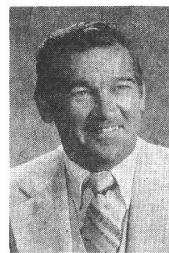

He said the future of the 40-acre tract behind the Granite City auto frame plant is uncertain.

"But I cannot see this plant expanding onto it, so I imagine A. O. Smith would be willing to sell it," he said.

He said it is unfortunate the business climate in Illinois has deteriorated to where businesses are having difficulty competing with businesses in other states, and said failure of state legislators to respond to the warning signs from business has been one of the major causes.

"The business community has been telling the state legislators through the Chamber of Commerce and

President

Weis will head state bricklayers

About 300 delegates attending the Illinois State Conference of Bricklayers and Allied Craftsmen in Peoria elected Bob Weis of Granite City president of the Bricklayers State Conference for Illinois.

Twenty-nine delegations, representing 77 of 79 union locals, unanimously voted Weis to the president's post.

Weis is business manager of Bricklayers Local 65 of Southwest Illinois.

Local 65 was the Granite City local until June 1976 when the Bricklayers International Union merged four other locals in the surrounding area under Local 65's jurisdiction.

The merger expanded Local 65's territory to include the counties of Madison, Calhoun, Jersey, Macoupin, Montgomery, Fayette and Bond.

As business manager, Weis maintains a central office in the Hyten Professional Building, 2110C Troy Road, Edwardsville.

The same week as the bricklayers' state meeting, it

Commission and board disagree

Four members of the 23-member church board of the Holy Trinity Bulgarian Orthodox Church, Madison, rejected the wishes of Bishop Simeon Akron, Ohio, yesterday at the division meeting.

The bishop was in Madison to celebrate the name day of the church.

After the liturgy, the bishop asked the members of the board present to stand. He had dismissed the board last week when it became the center of a controversy concerning the church's pastor, the Rev. Peter Stamboljiev, whom some oppose.

The bishop replaced the board with an appointed six-person commission, Dr. Vasili Vasileff, Ernest Eliff, Slave Eliff and Ruth Gellman.

The bishop asked the board members to comply with his wishes that the commission appointed by him control all church affairs until the visit of Patriarch Maximos from Bulgaria in September.

The commission had asked

He said he would continue to serve both as a County Board member and township supervisor if the legislation is passed in the General Assembly and signed by the governor.

But he said he has not made up his mind which of the two positions he would retain if the legislation is not approved or is vetoed by the governor.

He said his township duties as County Board chairman do not conflict with those of supervisor.

Supervisor bill progressing

A Senate vote is expected in Springfield this week on a bill that would permit County Board members to also serve as township supervisors.

If approved, the bill, sponsored by Sen. Sam Vaden of D-Edwardsville, would allow an opinion by Attorney General William J. Scott to ban combined county board-tow township positions after the general election.

The bill passed the House several weeks ago.

Passage of the legislation would permit Nelson Hagnauer, supervisor of Granite City and chairman of the Madison County Board, to retain both posts.

It also would affect Wood River Township Supervisor Jack Frandsen, both supervisors who now hold the dual positions.

At present Chouteau Township Supervisor Walter "Dick"

Sparks and Alton Supervisor Robert Roberts, also had both Sparks and Alton Mayor, who was defeated in his bid for renomination as County Board member in the March primary election, and Mrs. Roberts did not seek a new term.

He said he would continue to serve both as a County Board member and township supervisor if the

But he said he has not made up his mind which of the two positions he would retain if the legislation is not approved or is vetoed by the governor.

GC woman abducted and later freed

A Granite City woman was forced into a car in downtown Granite City Friday night and driven to a point along the Chain of Rocks Canal where the man tore off her clothing and left her on the roadway.

The woman, who was forced into the car on Niedringhaus Avenue as she was walking to her home on Edison Avenue. She said she was on her way home after visiting a friend at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Police said the woman told them the two men each took a pill and were drinking beer when they forced her into the car.

The woman was freed when the men left to the Chain of Rocks Canal where they told her to undress, she refused and they tore off her clothing and forced her out of the car at the east end of the Interstate 270 bridge.

Madison County Sheriff's Office said the woman whose car was stuck in the mud near the scene, said he saw the departing car speed by him. He said he checked the roadway and found the woman, and took her to the Granite City police

Cookerill reported he later checked the scene and found the woman's clothing about 150 feet from the two men who left her car.

The woman was not molested by the men and was unharmed, according to the police report.

Veterans urged to speed school plans

Veterans planning to enroll in college or other training this fall with GI Bill benefits are being urged to make their plans now.

Enrollment for an initial term requires acceptance from the school, said Donald Ramsey, director of the VA regional office. Other steps must be approved by the VA before benefits are paid.

Veterans have 10 years from the date of discharge to use their GI Bill educational benefits. The average age of veterans of the Vietnam Era, nearing 33, many will find they have only a few years left to use their benefits, Ramsey said.

Another advantage of making plans far enough in advance is that the veteran has time to complete the necessary papers with the Veterans Administration, assuring that the first GI Bill check will arrive at the end of the first month of training.

Acceptance by the school, with certification to the VA, is part of the enrollment process, and the VA's decision to study must be approved by the VA before benefits are paid.

Veterans have 10 years from the date of discharge to complete their training, and time is running short for many Vietnam Era veterans to complete the training they wish to take.

Information, counseling and assistance is available through the regional office of the VA, or from any of the state's veterans service organizations.

How do you make ends meet?

Supplemental monthly income will help.

Are you retired, or living on a fixed monthly income? If so, you know how hard it is to make ends meet each month.

First Bank can help brighten those monthly bill payment blues. How? By sending you a monthly interest check on "nest-egg" time deposits of $5,000 or more.

When you are depending on Social Security payments, or other fixed monthly income, nothing compares to regular supplemental income that coincides with the arrival of your monthly bills. And First Bank offers the complete range of authorized time deposits, all earning the maximum annual rates of interest allowed by law.

| Certificate Amount | Maturity | Annual Rate | Monthly Income |
|-------------------------------|----------------------------|------------------|--------------------|
| $5,000 Each add'l $1,000 | 3 months 3 months | 5 1/2% 5 1/2% | $22.91 $ 4.58 |
| $5,000 Each add'l $1,000 | 1 year 1 year | 6% 6% | $25.00 $ 5.00 |
| $5,000 Each add'l $1,000 | 2 1/2 years 2 1/2 years | 6 1/2% 6 1/2% | $27.08 $ 5.41 |
| $5,000 Each add'l $1,000 | 4 years 4 years | 7 1/2% 7 1/2% | $30.20 $ 6.04 |
| $5,000 Each add'l $1,000 | 6 years 6 years | 7 1/2% 7 1/2% | $31.25 $ 6.25 |
| $5,000 Each add'l $1,000 | 8 years 8 years | 7 1/4% 7 1/4% | $32.29 $ 6.45 |

Example: Suppose you have a nest-egg of $7,500 that you will need only in case of emergency. Invested in a First Bank certificate of deposit for 4 years at 7 1/4%, it will give you a monthly check of $45.30, every month for as long as your funds remain on deposit.

Federal law and regulation prohibit the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless the interest is reduced to the passbook rate (currently 5%), and three months of the interest is forfeited. However, this penalty does not apply in the event of the death of a certificate holder whether owned individually or jointly with another.

Two indicted in fatal shooting

Eugene Walker, Jr. and Paul Bainter, both of Cabela's, were indicted by a St. Clair County grand jury Thursday afternoon on charges of murder, armed robbery, armed violence, conspiracy to commit armed robbery, and four counts of attempted murder in connection with a robbery and shooting in the State Park Cafe, State Park, Illinois.

Walker was arrested in Houston, Tex., where the pair fled after the shooting, and Bainter was arrested at the St. Clair County building in Belleville after returning from Texas to make a court appearance in an unrelated case.

Both are named in all eight counts, although only one man, allegedly Walker, entered the cafe while the other waited in a car.

The murder charge is for the killing of Michael E. Wallace of State Park Place, who was killed by one of the shots fired from a semiautomatic weapon. Also wounded were James Outland, George Delisle, Terri Lynn Wallace and Carol Ailer, leading to the four counts of attempted murder.

With his aid a man with a gun over his head entered, announced a hold-up, told customers to put their money on the counter and then began shooting without an apparent reason.

He then took a purse containing about $100 and left, agents of the Illinois Dept. of Investigation said. Two DOI agents conducted the investigation which led to the arrests here and in Texas.

McCAMBRIDGE CRASH SCENE Sunday morning. In this view looking south on McCambridge Avenue near Third Street, Madison, a tow crew is

3 hurt in crash on McCambridge

Three persons were injured, one of them seriously, in a collision involving a passenger car and a camper truck unit at Third Street and McCambridge Avenue, Madison, at 3:20 a.m. Sunday.

The victorious squad was made up of players from six teams — Mendoza Sporting, St. Margaret Mary, Trinity, Pittsfield, Menard Athletic Club, Illinois-American Water Co. and St. Elizabeth.

Goal getters Saturday were Fritz Brewer, Rich Moore and Dave Modrusic. Scorers in the title game were Scott Vickers and Eric Maas.

Others injured were Robert Fetterer, 42, Troy driver of the camper unit, who was reportedly in stable condition, and his wife, Linda, 37, of Milwaukee. Robert Fetterer was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital, and George M. Barker, 23, of 124 Route 111, a passenger in Selye's car who was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Selye's car was northbound and may have veered into the southbound lane of McCambridge after hitting an auto off the McCambridge. Selye said it left the inside curb lane for the outside lane and then swerved across the roadway, colliding with the camper.

The impact extensively damaged the southbound edge we need to succeed in the automotive industry. For instance, at the current growth rate of the automotive industry, we would need twice our present capacity to build approximately 20 years just to maintain our current market share.

We have been studying how best to provide added facilities for our expanding market, and have chosen a target new business opportunity involving the type of transportation we would most likely supply. This plan, which under consideration by one of our customers, would represent the kind of production load that would be appropriate for a smaller facility than either Granite City or Milwaukee.

"We have been studying new plant sites which are favorably located near expected shipping destinations as well as near sources of material," he said.

"While no decision has been made by either our potential customers as to whether A. O. Smith would need a new business or by us on whether to proceed with a new plant, we have acquired an option to buy a plant site in Tennessee.

"This will enable us to buy the land later if we so desire. Studying the area has been a total package that will be attractive to our customers. In addition, because the design and construction of a plant and its equipment is a long, drawn-out process, more than two years, we have begun more intensive engineering studies so that we, and our potential customers, can tell whether or not we should proceed.

"A principal objective of this new plant will be to allow us to meet the ever-increasing price competition that has resulted in our losing some major contracts recently. You will be kept informed of further developments of this very important potential expansion plan," the letter concludes.

Man found beaten

Michael Dashke, 37, Fairmont City, was beaten here last week and was found bound in Kirkpatrick Homes with several teeth knocked out, a broken nose and possible facial fractures.

He told police he did not know how he got to Granite City, but believed he was beaten at St. Louis. He was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital and was admitted for surgery.

Murrell Richie dies at 74

Walter Murrell Richie, 74, Leslie, Ill., a former resident of Granite City and Venice, died Thursday after a long illness.

An employee of the former Commonwealth steel plant in Granite City, he moved during the 1940s and operated a farm in central Illinois, subsequently moving to the Chicago suburban area.

He was married in 1926 to the former Dorothy Holmes of Granite City. Survivors besides his wife are a son, Ed H. Richie of Naperville, Ill., and three grandchildren.

Funeral services in Dewart, Granite City, were attended Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Potillo and Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Gasparovic, all of Granite City.

Mr. Richie leaves many nieces and nephews in the Quad Cities.

Preceding him in death were two brothers, Marvin and Mr. and Mrs. Gall Richie Black and Mrs. Orma Rebecca Richick Fletcher.

Mrs. Orma Fletcher, 69, who attended grade and high school in Granite City, died April 6 of this year in Denver after a seven-week hospital stay.

She taught school and was a member of the church in Granite City. She died Saturday, June 11, 1978, at the age of 83.

The burial was made impossible to identify White, except through fingerprints, deputies said.

The possibility White may have been associated with St. Louis racketeering activities is being explored.

Apartment ransacked

Jacqueline Mass, 28, Pershing Blvd., returned home at 5:15 p.m. Friday and discovered her living room had been ransacked and $172 was missing from the pages of her checkbook.

She reported entry apparently was gained by someone using a screwdriver to break open the front door, between the hours of 3:50 p.m. and the time she arrived home.

CAMPER TRUCK LOOTED

The pickup truck cab and camper shell were broken into between 3:10 a.m. and 9:50 a.m. Sunday in the vehicle of Lance Parham, 21, Belmont St., Belvidere, who parked it at his home. The right door window was broken to entry to the cab, from which a $100 CB radio was taken. The rear camper shell door was broken and about $100 worth of rods and reels and a tackle box containing about $100 worth of fishing equipment were taken.

Comparative degree of physical damage, address of applicants, interest in the proposed project on the special problems, demonstrated performance in housing and community development programs.

Madison Mayor Sasyk said he feels that the city and the merchants already have demonstrated their desire to help bring the Alpine look among many of the downtown stores, the planning of a mini-shopping center between citizens groups, merchants and the city government.

State police implement rural security program

With the steady increase of rural crime, the Illinois State Police in District 11 have implemented a Rural Security Program. Purpose of the program is to reinforce crime prevention in rural and unincorporated areas and to assure the public that the Illinois State Police are focusing attention on the problem of rural crime.

Since the implementation of the Rural Security Program, troopers in District 11 have made approximately 14,500 security checks of various rural and unincorporated areas.

Two security deficiencies most noted were lack of lighting and doors and windows left unlocked at open.

Troopers will conduct security checks, on an irregular basis, of business establishments, government buildings, and private residences.

Buildings and nonresidential and/or unincorporated areas will be physically checked during hours of non-occupancy. The officer checking the premises will conduct a security check of the establishment checked.

Any window or doors found to be unlocked, if it appears that the premises has been a victim of crime, an attempt will be made to contact the owner immediately.

For residents of Bond, Cass, Clinton, Greene, Jersey, Macoupin, Madison, Monroe, Montgomery and St. Clair Counties, the Illinois State Police in District 11 will conduct security checks of their residence. Persons going on vacation or planning to be absent from their residence or business, may notify the Illinois State Police at Maryville by calling collect: 818-345-1212.

Summer chamber music at SIUE

Music spanning the years from the early 1700s to the present will be heard at the opening concert of the Summer Chamber Music Series at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The program, scheduled June 20 at 8:15 p.m. in Meridian Hall, will be performed by member of the SIUE department of music faculty. They include: George Melchior, clarinet; Linda Perry, piano; Janet Scott, flute; and Sarah Turner, soprano.

Also featured on the program will be the work of one of SIUE's own, James Woodard, professor of music. Written two years ago for the celebration of the American Bicentennial, the composition which will be highlighted in the concert utilizes the Stephen Foster songs, "I Dream of Jeannie with a Bjorn," "Oh! Susanna," and "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming," and is titled "Dream Songs of Stephen Foster."

Woodard has also arranged a special treatment of Johann Sebastian Bach's "Bist Du Bei Mir," which will be featured on the program.

The concert will conclude with the performances of Bach's "Sonata No. 5" and David Milhaud's "Sonata."

Six concerts will be included in the Chamber Music Series this summer with performances each Thursday evening. Tickets may be purchased in advance for the season or for individual performances. New sheet steel said to be more energy efficient

Introduction of a new energy-efficient sheet steel product, described as an improved, fully processed carbon lamination grade, was announced Thursday in Pittsburgh by Alan C. Papp, National Steel Corp. marketing manager, special products.

Developed by the National Steel Research Department and the Research Division, the new product, designated as NACOR-B, is used for the laminated cores of electric motors and transformers.

The demonstration program is made possible under an amendment Findley tacked on to the food stamp provisions of the Farm Bill approved by Congress last fall.

The demonstration program is designed to encourage the departments of agriculture and labor will establish 14 pilot projects nationwide with state and local welfare agencies who volunteer for the demonstration effort.

After a year of testing, Findley hopes to use the results to push for a nationwide program that could apply not only to food stamps but to other areas such as federally subsidized housing bonuses for welfare recipients.

"I really think people who are able to work for these things should work for these things," he said.

In the past, such "workfare" concepts have faced fervent opposition from the welfare lobby.

Findley believes the welfare lobby is the strength of the Proposition 13, and that is pretty powerful," Findley said.

Findley's proposal was opposed by Congress because it would have required welfare recipients to work for their food stamp bonuses.

The work requirement would apply only to food stamp recipients who currently are required to be hunting for a job in order to qualify for the stamp.

Earthquake warnings are still in the future

(American Association for the Advancement of Science)

Near Palmdale, in southern California, scientists have noted an unusually large number of small earthquakes since November 1976.

Along the San Jacinto fault, near Los Angeles, an abnormal amount of random gas bubbles moves to the earth's surface when the stress on subsurface rock changes, has been detected.

Both of these phenomena could be signaling a major quake. But earthquake prediction has proved so uncertain that scientists are not issuing warnings.

The problem, according to a report by Richard Kerr in "Science," the journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, is that there is no way to predict moderate-sized earthquakes in California recently to sort out various geophysical phenomena that may foretell a damaging tremor.

Meanwhile, scientists are watching possible warning signals — from groups of microearthquakes to changes in the tilt of the earth's surface to unusual amounts of gas in the bowels of the earth — one clear indicator to an earthquake of considerable size.

One area of study that holds some hope involves the occurrence of microearthquakes (of a magnitude of less than 4 on the Richter scale).

By monitoring microearthquake activity through dense networks of seismographs, researchers believe they can learn a great deal about the location and time of a main shock.

For example, a fairly large quake occurred last year in the Anatolian Islands of Turkey. The area, which had experienced a quake in 1971, had been monitored since 1974 by a network of seismographs recording microearthquakes.

Scientists picked up a pattern of seismic silence alternating with activity prior to the 1977 shock. This is believed to be similar to the pattern that preceded the 1971 quake.

A future repetition of this microearthquake pattern might be used to make a prediction, according to the Science article.

For other areas, however, there is careful monitoring of previous earthquakes has not taken place. The question is, then, whether microearthquake activity is signaling a long-term change in the region's ability to produce earthquakes or the impending occurrence of a damaging shock.

With a surge of financial support from the federal government, appropriations for earthquake grants nearly tripled from 1976 to 1977. Researchers are hopeful that they can identify the key warning signals for major quakes.

Meanwhile, according to Science writer Kerr, "researchers generally believe that prediction is a realistic goal."

"But many believe that it will be too long before it can be longer, before widespread, reliable prediction of major earthquakes is achieved."

Remedial action on search ruling sought

The U.S. Supreme Court's 3 to 3 decision allowing search of newspaper offices and files with a warrant was attacked last week by Al Neuharth, president and chief executive officer, Garnett Co. Inc., at the American Press Conference in St. Louis.

In an address as chairman and president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, Neuharth called the decision "subjecting newspaper offices to ransacking puts a sledge hammer in the hands of those who would batter the American people's First Amendment rights."

"It authorizes harassment and intimidation of the public's right to know... it literally and legally picks the lock that protects the exercise of a free press and, in effect, of free speech."

Neuharth said the ANPA's legal experts — working with the lawyers of other newspaper organizations — have been analyzing the Stanford affair to develop "a detailed damage assessment and a plan for remedial action."

"We can take some encouragement from the Justice Department," Neuharth said, in reference to a statement by Attorney General Griffin Bell's assistant, Donald Civiletti, immediately after the top court's decision was handed down.

Civiletti said the Justice Department intends to stick with its rules that subpoenas must be issued and the remedy to seek data from the press.

Neuharth said ANPA will join with state press associations and member newspapers to encourage state and local government to adopt and to strongly reaffirm the same "subpoena-not-search" policy.

He said publishers must follow U.S. Judge Harold Medina's advice to "fight like tigers" against this latest effort at press restraint.

U.S. should avoid 'Potemkin villages'

By RICHARD L. LESHER

President

U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Griffith - Alben-Wade-advoc

Potemkin (1739-1791) served

Empress Catherine the Great of Russia in a number of capacities, not the least delicate of them was to build potemkin villages.

So concerned was he for the happiness that he arranged for the Empress to hear only good news from her subjects. To assure this, he built phony potemkin villages along the routes of travel and stocked them with "happy" peasants.

Potemkin achieved a certain immortality in the process,

as "potemkin village"

now passed into the language of political science to describe artificially contrived displays of popular sentiment.

The potemkin can be built in every government, including our own. Here, the approach is more subtle.

Suppose, for example, that you have a hill station at one of the federal regulatory agencies. And suppose you have a pet idea — or a whole flock of them — that you'd like to see adopted by the agency.

Would it be nice if you could find some dependable

"peasants" who agree with your point of view, and then pay them to come to a public hearing and speak up for it?

That way, there need never be an embarrassing gap between what the agency wants and what

"the people" want.

There's potemkin village legislation in Congress now.

It's called the Public

Participation in Federal Agency Proceedings Act.

H.R. 6960 and S. 270 in the Senate and H.R. 3996 and S. 1212 in the House.

This legislation would authorize federal agencies to pay attorney's fees and other costs of participation incurred by selected witnesses in Proceedings concerning telecommunications, rate licensing, health, safety, and environmental issues.

The argument advanced in favor of such arrangements is that representatives of the public are easily outgunned by big business in official agency proceedings, since business has the money to subsidize its witnesses.

This argument has a certain logic to it, if you look at one very important fact: The federal agencies are, with all of their budgets and all of their staffs, are responsible for representing the public interest.

They were established for that purpose by the elected representatives of the people. Their members are not "potemkin villages" but are the representatives of the people.

In reality, it is business that is outgunned.

When a business appears before regulatory agency, it is usually trying to defend its private property rights against an assault from the public interest, as represented by the majority of the people.

True, the cost of participation may be a burden to some self-appointed "representatives" of the public interest, just as they are a burden to many people.

But there was a better way.

Soil meetings July 12

Madison County residents will have a chance to help appraise the natural resources of the county and develop a conservation program to improve them, according to Melvin Koelz, Madison County Soil and Water Conservation District SWCD, director.

Two public meetings to express opinions about problems, needs and for natural resources in the county will be July 12, at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the Fairlawn Bureau Building, Edwardsville.

"What we learn at these meetings will help the U.S. Department of Agriculture USDA direct programs to the natural resources field," Koelz explained. "Also, we can actually help determine the needs and establish goals for the department's programs," he predicted.

The meeting will be sponsored by the Madison County SWCD and the USDA Soil Conservation Service (SCS). The purpose of the help USDA programs is a result of the Resources Conservation Act which President Carter signed December 31, 1973.

Professor to recall 1968 invasion for BBC program

The British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC) in England has invited Kamil Winter, associate professor of mass communications at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, to participate in a program commemorating the 10th anniversary of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

At the time of the invasion, Winter was head of the Czechoslovak mission and public affairs program. He helped organize the underground broadcasts during the first week of the Soviet occupation which informed the world about the events occurring in Czechoslovakia.

Winter will fly to London early next month to work on the program which will be scheduled for airing on BBC Television's "Panorama" in August. The equivalent to CBS's "60 Minutes," "Panorama" is the most prestigious public affairs program in Europe.

The SIUE mass communications professor appeared on that program 10 years ago, having written and given the commentary to a one-hour documentary, "Seven Days in August." The program was aired twice on British television.

On the 10th anniversary program, Winter will review the events of August 1968 and sum up the lessons from the events for "Panorama."

According to Winter, one of the first things that the Soviets did when they arrived in Prague was to arrest many of the government officials and send them to Moscow.

The take over occurred during the night. Residents of Prague awoke in the morning to find themselves without a government and occupied by the Russians.

"The Russians had put out a story indicating that the Czechoslovak government invited them to come in," Winter said. "I helped organize television and radio continuing broadcasts which informed the people what was going on," he added.

Winter's first aim was to tell people what was happening to them, and second, to organize resistance against the Russians. Our third and most successful aim was to inform reporters and anchormen who were totally reliable for the news, but who were politically reliable," Winter said.

"Of all the journalists working under me in 1968 in television, not one is left today," he said. Winter feels that he made the right choice in leaving his country and coming to America to start life anew. "I would have gotten three to five years in jail for denouncing the Soviet invasion on television if I had remained in that country," he said.

According to the SIUE mass communications professor, one of the best jobs now held by journalists in Czechoslovakia is that of driving a taxi. One journalist is washing windows and another, a female journalist on Prague radio who was considered one of the best in the field, makes a living carrying hot meals from their kitchens to workers at their jobs.

McPike backs tax relief

State Rep. Jim McPike (D-Alton) says a statewide property-tax relief campaign proposed by state Sen. Art Borkholder Michael J. Bakals will result in millions of dollars in refunds to Illinois taxpayers.

Rep. McPike said nearly two-thirds of all Illinois households, including homeowners and renters, would be affected by the program if it passes the General Assembly and is signed into law by Governor James R. Thompson.

"For the first time, the program will extend tax rebates to working, middle-class families," McPike said.

The measure, announced June 8 by the Democratic candidate for governor, is contained in House Bill 329, which has the support of the House and Senate Democratic leadership and the Illinois Public Action Council (IPAC), the state's largest citizen taxpayer organization.

In addition to extending tax rebates to working, middle-class families for the first time," McPike said, "the Bakals program will increase benefits to senior citizens and the handicapped under the so-called 'circuit breaker' property-tax relief program. The program will provide tax rebates to anyone with a gross annual income of $30,000 or less whose property tax exceed 3.5 per cent of his income. Because the state assumes that 3.5 per cent of a renter's rent goes for the renter's share of his building's property taxes, a renter will be eligible for the rebate if his 30 per cent share exceeds 3.5 per cent of his income."

In the Senate, the bill will be amended to phase in the tax relief program over a four-year period. During the first year, rebates will total 12.5 per cent of the excess tax over 3.5 per cent of the taxpayer's income; during the second year, 25 per cent; during the third year 37.5 per cent; and during the fourth year (and thereafter), 50 per cent.

"Taxes are a pain in the neck not only to Californians, who Proposition 13 is a recent citizen-voted referendum, but to people all over the country, including Illinois," Rep. McPike said. "People have been hard hit in the past by rapidly increasing and burdensome property taxes will get meaningful tax rebates under this program."

No taxpayer will be able to get a rebate of more than $650 less 2 per cent of his income, and as a typical example, a homeowner with an annual income of $30,000 and a property tax bill of $1,000 would get a $37.50 rebate the first year, $75 the second, $112.50 the third, and $150 the fourth year and each year thereafter.

Charges diplomas fraudulent

Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott has charged a Seattle, Wash., man with operating a fraudulent diploma mill in Chicago.

Scott, in a suit filed in Cook County Circuit Court, asked the court to permanently halt Borgue's activities in Illinois. Scott also asked the court to assess Borgue a $50,000 civil penalty.

Handling the case for Scott is Assistant Attorney General James L. Meacham of Scott's Consumer Fraud and Protection Division.

Cycle crashes

Glenn Murch, 21, Caseyville, suffered multiple abrasions when his motorcycle lost control last week when it was crossing railroad tracks in this area and fell, causing him to slide on the ground.

He suffered injuries to his right shoulder, arm, elbow, wrist, forearm, knee and foot and both hands, authorities said. He was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital and was transferred to Belleville Memorial Hospital.

Named college president

Dr. Norman L. Jenkins, formerly of Granite City, was named by the Kishwaukee College Board of Trustees at a meeting last week to succeed retiring college president Dr. W. E. Fly. Jenkins is the college's top administrative post.

Chairman of the Board of Trustees John Roberts of DeKalb announced: "It is with mixed emotion that we accept Dr. Fly's resignation."

Howard Mullins of Shabbona, the only remaining member of the college's original board which was elected in February 1966, said: "It is up to us to make something out of this decision. It's been in the back of my mind for some time, that we've got someone groomed for the job. Dr. Jenkins has shown the skills and ability to do the job and to fulfill the job as president."

Dr. Fly has served as the college's only president, being named in July 1967, more than a year before the school opened its doors to students. The resignation of the 64-year old native of Texas will be effective Sept. 30.

Stepping into his shoes will be Dr. Jenkins, a 41-year old native of Granite City, and a Granite City resident for 20 years. He has also been with the community college for some time, being hired in January 1968 as Head of Student Services, a post he held until 1970, when he was named to his present post as executive dean.

Dr. Jenkins said, "A tradition of excellence has been established at Kishwaukee College under the leadership of Dr. Fly during the past 10 years. It's been the practice at Kishwaukee College to attempt to provide a high quality program of education, yet set aside a reasonable cost to the students and taxpayers of the district."

"An outstanding staff has been assembled over the years to accomplish this goal and no one, for any decent shift, will direct at this time. The only changes I would contemplate in the near future are those which might result from the changing needs of the people and the communities we serve."

The Rochelle resident received his bachelor's degree from Illinois State University and earned his masters and doctoral degrees from Purdue University.

He has taught on the grade school level and high school level in Warden, Ill., at the high school and junior college level in Lashua-Piney Woods, Ill., also a counselor prior to his assuming a post at Kishwaukee.

He and his wife, Gloria, have been active in community activities in Rochelle. They have four children, with the oldest, Kathy, a nursing student at Kishwaukee College. Their other youngsters are Norm, 17, Lisa, 12, and Michael, 9.

Dr. Jenkins plans to stay on part-time as a consultant after his retirement becomes effective in September.

Roberts said, "This community will owe you, Dr. Fly, a debt for years to come for your role in forming and leading the college."

'Porpoising' isn't name of the game

A quirk of fast boats is "porpoising." When moving at normal high speed, the bow will rise and fall rhythmically.

Some boatsiders are under the impression that this is the best angle for fast boats, but it is not.

Actually it is difficult to porpoise. When a boat is porpoising, the bow rises and hence the propeller meets the rushing water at an ever-changing angle.

At mid-point between porpoising oscillations does the prop. bite into the water at the most efficient angle for which it was designed.

Similarly, the planing bottom of the hull does not remain in the same most comfortable angle for low drag and best speed.

With the bow up, the hull figure-eight "drags its heel" in the water.

With bow down, more of the hull's bottom surface offers skin friction in the water.

A porpoising hull wanders between two conditions of higher drag.

According to experts, the usual cause of porpoising is that the boat's overall center of gravity is too high.

With a rock in a cloth and put it aboard far forward.

If the forward shift of the center of gravity stops your boat from porpoising look about for a more permanent method of shifting weight forward.

Porpoising is a good way to get rid of distortion. If you find such distortion, try to good mechanical about its possible cause and correct it.

Remember, it seems true when at rest may flex when underway and present a "hooked" or "hogged" bottom to the rushing water without you ever seeing it.

If porpoising persists, look for mechanical trouble.

Four hurt in I-55 crash

Three local residents and a former Granite City resident are recovering from injuries suffered in a two-car accident on Interstate 55 north of the Mount Olive exit last week.

Sources indicated the northbound auto of Janice Wideman, 33, of 2434 Benton St., struck the front of a southbound car of Eunice Buford, 32, of Libertyville, Ill., a former Granite City resident.

Buford's car then skidded off the right side of the road, spun up, turned around and overturned one and one-half times, coming to rest on its top.

Mrs. Wideman was issued a ticket charging her with driving too fast for conditions. Both drivers and Miss Fannings were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Libertyville. Buford suffered a broken pelvis and dislocated bones in his back and was transferred to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he may require traction for three months.

Miss Fannings suffered a head injury, a cut to an ear which required sutures, and bruises and was transferred to the local hospital where she was admitted for observation.

Mrs. Wideman was treated at the Litchfield Hospital for a broken arm and she has been released.

Donald Bropies, 27, of 1402 Adams St., a passenger in Mrs. Wideman's auto, also was injured, but he declined hospital treatment.

A passenger in the auto, Buford's granddaughter, Miss Robin Fannings, 11, of 4932 S. 10th St., was thrown out of the car and flagged down a passing truck driver, who used his citizens band radio to summon police, firemen and an ambulance.

Mr. Wideman was issued a ticket charging her with driving too fast for conditions. Both drivers and Miss Fannings were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Libertyville.

YOUR HEART

The deadly cigarette

By WILLIAM J.
KUZMAN, M.D.

In 1964 the surgeon general clearly documented an association between smoking and health.

Since then numerous medical reports have appeared further clarifying the important role of cigarette smoking and heart disease. Long-term studies have clearly shown that cigarette smoking is one of the major risk factors in the development of coronary artery disease, better known to the lay public as heart attacks.

Recent estimates would indicate that approximately 320,000 heart attacks deaths occur each year as a direct result of cigarette smoking. Lung cancer is responsible for about 19 percent of this excess mortality. However, coronary artery disease and pulmonary heart disease are the major areas of premature morbidity and mortality. Total mortality in cigarette smokers is twice that of nonsmokers.

In addition, cigarette smoking is additive to other well-recognized risk factors such as high blood pressure, cigarette smoking, history of heart disease and other lesser risk factors. One can document that the risk of developing cardiovascular disease is directly related to the number of cigarettes smoked and the number of years of smoking expressed in pack years.

In a recent report to the medical profession published in February, 1978, in Circulation, the official journal of the American Heart Association, grave concern was expressed as relates to the excess mortality associated with cigarette smoking. The 1976 ad hoc committee on cigarette smoking and cardiovascular disease reexamined its previous report of 1971 and called for a reduction and/or cessation of cigarette smoking as an effective means of reducing the heart disease death rate.

Many patients question the role of cigarette smoking in heart disease. Research studies indicate that carbon monoxide and nicotine are potent toxic substances responsible for the adverse effect on the cardiovascular system.

Nicotine causes mobilization of catecholamines, which are special compounds that act on the heart and blood vessels.

When present in excessive amounts, these substances cause vasoconstriction and increase the blood pressure, the heart rate, the force of contraction of the heart and thereby the need for increased amounts of oxygen to meet the metabolic needs of the individual.

In a similar fashion, the presence of carbon monoxide produces a substance known as carboxyhemoglobin, thus leading to anoxia — defined as a lack of oxygen necessary in all cells to carry on normal function.

On the lay public, as well as physicians, fail to appreciate the fact that carbon monoxide levels of 400 parts per million can develop during cigarette smoking.

One must appreciate the fact that hemoglobin, the iron protein portion of the red blood cell that carries oxygen, has an affinity for carbon monoxide 245 times greater than for oxygen. This leads to further anoxic changes which can be critical in certain cases. This same lack of oxygen produces damage to the inner lining of blood vessels which in the presence of high cholesterol can lead to further arterial damage.

Of major concern to most physicians dealing with cardiovascular disease is the syndrome of "sudden death."

One must be familiar with the expression that so and so was perfectly healthy and he died suddenly.

This clinical situation is often seen in nonsmokers and is believed to be due to the increased sensitivity of the heart to the excess of catecholamine and other compounds the lack of oxygen to the presence of high levels of carbon monoxide. It is now clearly recognized that smoking in an individual with pre-existing heart disease can well be a deadly combination.

Teams set for North-South cage games

BLOOMINGTON — Could this be the breakthrough year for the Class A North squad in the Illinois Basketball Coaches Association All-Star Games?

The North has lost all three previous games, but will the South, but will bring an impressive array of talent to its fourth attempt on Saturday, July 8, at Horton Field House on the Illinois State University campus.

The Class A game will begin at 5 p.m., with the battle between the larger Class AA squads starting at 7 p.m.

THE QUAD-CITIES will be represented by two people at the games — but in different uniforms.

Madison's standout guard Anthony King has been selected to play for the Class A small team. The Class AA small team of Granite City North has been picked to be one of six referees for the two games.

Other referees are Dick Thompson of Quincy, Jim Harrison of Bradley, Tony Sacco of River Forest, Jack Lulay of Peoria and Lyle Johnson of Williamson. Final game assignments will be made the day of the games.

ONLY NON-WINNER THE CLASS A North team is the only one without a victory so far in this mid-summer classic, but the games have been competitive. The South won by margins of five, one and three points.

Cochell Slager of Chicago

Christian expects to make a strong run of the South again this year with no less than three first team IBCA All-State selections on his North team.

They are guards Jeff Clements of Mt. Pulaski and Perry Range of South Beloit, and forward Jasper McElroy of Chicago St. Michael Clements, three-year standout, helped lead Mt. Pulaski to the state title in 1976 and averaged 19.7 points. Range is the North's top scorer with a 27.8 average. McElroy had monster statistics of 22 points and 19 rebounds per game.

Three other players are on hand who were chosen on the IBCA's all-state selection: Greg Yess, 6-foot 6 Princeville center with 24.2 points and 14 rebounds, was on the second five. North players who were on

Tri-City wins two of three

By PETE HAYES
Press-Record Sports Editor

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. — If Tri-City American Legion Post 113 baseball coach Babe Champion felt like he hadn't been living right yesterday, he can be forgiven. His team had just taken a 6-0 lead in the first inning of a doubleheader opener here when the game was called because of rain.

Saturday, Champion's squad didn't become a victim of the rain, hitting defensively and fell to Blytheville 5-2. Friday, Tri-City defeated arch-rival Glen Carbon 6-2.

In all, the Post 113 completed six games in the three, three in the first inning against Blytheville Saturday. But Champion didn't feel badly.

"It's just a tough game. Those errors were just tough plays that a lot of guys wouldn't have even gotten to," he said. "But when you do and then don't make the throw, it has to go."

MIAMI VALLEILLE scored four runs in its first inning on only one hit, and those three Tri-City errors, one of which was a catcher's interference call on Keith Champion.

"They (Blytheville's coaches) told me afterwards that the guy at bat for them on that play has been on base about 20 times this season because of interference calls and Keith Champion. He has a strange batting stance which allows him to sort of fall" into the catcher.

Champion was pleased with his team's defensive performance after the first inning. "Mike didn't let that scoring get him down," he said. "After the first inning, he settled down and scored only five singles the rest of the way ... and they were scattered."

Tri-City actually out-hit Blytheville 7-6. The big blow was a 350-foot home run off the bat of Mike Clark in the fifth inning which scored Danny Schaus ahead of him.

YESTERDAY, Tri-City had already tallied six runs and had scored its first third of the rain, but with a bigger rain. But even though it meant costing his team a probable victory, Champion said he felt good about the way things turned out on the trip south. "It makes us feel good when we score a lot of runs like this after getting beat."

Jovic is the coach of Glen Carbon Post 453's baseball team, which now has a firm grip on last place in the North Division. District 22 will have a league record of 1-5. Glen Carbon fell to Tri-City 6-2 Friday at Granite City South field, and one of the teams did it with nine errors ... either way you look at it.

Tri-City pitcher Al Yount pitched a two-hitter. But so did Glen Carbon's Terry Page. But Yount found another way to score runs.

TRI-CITY scored three runs in the first inning without the benefit of a single hit. Four walks, a passed ball and sacrifice fly accounted for the runs.

Shorthop Tom Henrich led off with a walk, stole second and went to third when third baseman Mike Clark and catcher Ron Champion also received free passes.

Larry Heavy, Tri-City's designated hitter, hit a sacrifice fly to centerfield, scoring Clark. Henrich then reached Krockow then reached base via an error by Glen Carbon shorthop Bob Batey, which allowed Clark to score. Clark moved up to third and Henrich scored.

Tri-City actually out-hit Blytheville 7-6. The big blow was a 350-foot home run off the bat of Mike Clark in the fifth inning which scored Danny Schaus ahead of him.

EDWARDSVILLE — "Just call us the 'Cross-Country Cougars,'" said Coach Jim Dudley, commenting on his 1978-79 Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville basketball school.

Dudley, whose Cougars posted a 11-14 record last year, is optimistic about his charges being able to improve their performance in the upcoming campaign. And, even though, according to him, "We are playing the toughest schedule of any NCAA Division II (small college) basketball team."

"First," he pointed out, "we are playing six Division I teams, including top-ranked University of Nevada at Reno."

He also pointed out, "all but seven of the Cougars' games are on the road, where it is easier to difficult to win."

The Cougars will open in Mobile, Ala., Saturday, Nov. 25, against the University of South Alabama. Other Division I schools on the SIUE schedule, in addition to the U. of Nevada, are Rice, Boston University, University of Northern Colorado, University of Wyoming, St. Louis University and Illinois State University.

After making its debut in Alabama, SIUE fans will see the Cougars in a home game against Missouri Baptist College, Nov. 29. It won't be until Jan. 21, and then they return to their "home court," the Edwardsville High School gym, to take on McKendree College. The Cougars will play in two tournaments, the first at Rock Island, Ill., hosted by Augustana College. Then, just seven days later, they'll be at Resaca, Ind., to take part in the Indiana College Classic. The Cougars are slated to play in the Puma Classic last year, but a snow storm prevented them from making it.

The Cougars are scheduled to play twice in St. Louis'

Over 1,000 boys can testify to the effectiveness of the training they have received at the Burt Ranch Soccer Camp. That's the number of students the camp has enrolled in its five years of existence.

The sixth edition of Burt Ranch Soccer Camp is set for two one-week sessions July 9-15 and July 16-22. For boys aged 8-16, the camp is held on a 214-acre site near Desoto, Mo., about 35 miles south of St.

Louis.

Two of the coaches have been with the camp since its inception and will return this summer to instruct Burt Ranch campers. Pat McBride, a coach two years ago, and a 10-year veteran in the North American Soccer League, joins Bob Brunette, the athletic director of the Afton School District in St. Louis County, as co-director of the camp.

McBride, currently head coach at Missouri Community College, guided his club to the 1976 national championship and a runnerup finish in 1977. McBride, a graduate of the Busch Soccer Club, St. Louis, assisted team, has led his Busch clubs to a combined 132-124 record over the last four seasons.

Also serving as a Burt Ranch instructor will be Rick Benben, assistant soccer coach at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville. Benben, a former NASL goalie with the Dallas Tornado, coached the Ruzi amateur squad to the 1977 Missouri Junior Cup title. Missouri amateur players from SIU, Edwardsville, Quincy, St. Louis, and Meramec will round out the staff.

The instructors will inteensively train campers

through drills, films, and full-scale scrimmages. The camp's facilities include a full-size playing field, smaller drill field, shooting range, and a dining hall. For recreation, the site includes an Olympic-size swimming pool, a lake, and wooded areas.

Cost is $120 per week and includes room, meals, and insurance. For more information, write Burt Ranch Soccer Camp, 731 Davemore, St. Louis, Mo. 63123, or call (314) 631-7114.

A variety of occurrences is prompting opposition to all of the proposals that would authorize away-from-track betting

Illinois for many years has been one of the most active states in terms of the "sport" of horse racing, and the state's advocates. There is a more or less consistent pattern of rule enforcement, and the state derives funds for its treasury. Jobs are provided as Illinoisans and other bettors flock to the tracks.

A negative aspect has been the tendency of tracks to seek influence with legislators, even though a theoretical case can be made for those regulated by the state seeking acquaintanceship and rapport with it.

Now, unfortunately, the whole subject is beginning to take on even more disturbing overtones.

Following the theory that if a little bit of something is good, a lot of it must be a lot better, Illinois legislators have been extending the kinds of legal gambling, buoyed by the continuing popularity of bingo and the initial popularity of the state lottery.

Aside from certain moral questions — on which citizens never will reach full agreement — it seems to be a situation of "so far so good," but be constantly vigilant against last-minute or any sinister infiltration of the counting-house.

Two of the current worries are the General Assembly's head-long dash toward possibly legalizing off-track betting, and the proliferation of bet messenger services.

Quad-City and Madison County officials have won commendation by taking a stern attitude toward the bet messenger concept, but elsewhere many officials have "looked the other way" as the courts batted back and forth what seemed to be a loophole in existing laws.

That is, many looked the other way until Thursday night, when Internal Revenue Service agents raided 23 locations, the Illinois Department of Employment Security visited and the Federal Bureau of Investigation moved against three sites.

Overall, authorities seized $20,000 and 108 cartons of records at the 62 Chicago area messenger services chosen for simultaneous raid activity.

Bearing search warrants, they said they will compare the confiscated material with figures on each day's betting volume at race tracks. The goal is to determine whether bets are being transported to tracks, or whether some fail to reach the tax-monitored tracks and are "booked" by someone handling bet money.

Also being checked are any links with syndicate crime, any failures to obtain $500 federal wagering stamps, and any lack of two percent federal wagering tax payments.

Meanwhile, a Madison County grand jury is preparing to question jockeys and others who may have knowledge of race fixing. It earlier returned indictments against bookmakers and failure to report to the state and the county for county probes of the doping of six horses before a scheduled race at Fairmount Park.

Regardless of how innocent the coincidence, the appearance of certain names in connection with race track investigations and with messenger service debates cause the imagination to wonder. One can visualize all sorts of legal or illegal situations that might stem from any synergistic links between bettors and those skulking about horse barns.

Outstanding remains is to accept horse racing as an accomplished fact — admittedly always in need of thorough state enforcement efforts — but to strenuously urge Illinois officials to fight all off-track/betting proposals — state, city or privately run.

'The ugly Russian' behind the scene at many trouble spots

Press-Record Washington Bureau — The Russians have been putting on their uglier face lately in Africa and in Moscow.

But that mustn't keep us from realizing that the main foreign policy problem of our time is how to keep the two great nuclear superpowers — ourselves and the Russians — from blowing up the world.

In Africa, the Russians and their Cuban allies evidently are the disaffected Katangese banditry to invade their former homeland (now called Shaba province) and attempt to wrest it from Zaïrean control.

The invasion failed, courtesy of the French Foreign Legion and the Belgian army, with some logistic help from Uncle Sam.

But the Katangese would probably have invaded whether they had Russian and Cuban help or not.

Afghanistan is in a state of turbulence.

Detente never meant that the Russians, with their revolutionary mystique and their tradition of fishing in troubled waters, would not seek to "evangelize" the Third World.

Defends work of Bulgarian pastor

To the Editor:

Why are some people "crucifying" Father Peter Stamboljev, pastor of the Bulgarian Eastern Orthodox Church?

I am writing to catalyze some thinking in the minds of parishioners and the general public.

He has been accused of many things but I hardly think so. The long list of accusations includes: discrediting the church, not printing the church bulletin properly, keeping the youth from coming to church, and meddling in the church's business.

Father Peter is a human being and a priest. He's not infallible, and he's never pretended to be in any decision he has had to make for his church.

He has made many sacrifices for his church.

How many priests would give up an estate of some $60,000 of his beloved friend, Dr. Assen Kostoff, in order for his church to have the money for some additional remodeling or future repairs?

Father Peter never let money or heavy donations of generous people stand in his way of serving the people of our church.

He served us all whether we asked for condolences, forgiveness, support or recognition. He has never disrespected his church or his collar.

Ultimately, the Russians are not going to make themselves popular in Africa by gunrunning and helping Africans kill other Africans.

And, given the Russian clumsiness, what they do in Africa and what we do in Africa to counter them may not make much difference in the end.

In Moscow, the Russians imposed a hard sentence on Yuri Orlov, the dissident physician, who exposed corruption in the government. It was the kind of sentence for the kind of crime that would have been handled in exactly the same way by the czars.

We must continue to protest violations of human rights in Moscow and elsewhere, but without much realistic hope of changing matters for the better in the Soviet Union in the near future.

Meanwhile, SALT, the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks, is a good idea. We must strive for a treaty, not as a reward to the Russians for good behavior, but because it is in our interest, their interest and the world's interest.

I didn't always understand his parishioners because he is a newcomer to America.

However, he really proved to me that he tried his best.

Besides, we are all different and, as far as I am concerned, the perfect or objective in our decision.

Father Peter felt that he was doing the best for his church and his people. What more can any one of us ask of a man?

I have been Father Peter's friend since I was nine years old.

I have had the pleasure of being his Russian language student in high school, his

Youth found hurt along N.W. tracks

Paul L. Warren, 17, of 2167 Gladys, was found unconscious and lying along the Norfolk & Western Railroad tracks near Hamel after he fell from a moving train Thursday afternoon.

He was taken by ambulance to the Staunton Community Hospital where he was admitted. Officials there declined to discuss his condition or the extent of his injuries. Police with the Madison County sheriff's deputies said the boy was believed to be "hitching a ride" to Edwardsville on a boxer when he fell and was injured.

Who picks up tab for mansion events?

By AL MANNING

SPRINGFIELD — The half of his social functions at the executive mansion are paid for by private organizations, according to Gov. James Thompson's office.

The other half are paid for by the state with money appropriated by the General Assembly to operate the mansion.

A list compiled by the governor's office shows 38 coffees, lunches, teas, dinners and receptions have been held at the mansion during the last nine months.

Between July 18 and April 18, the beginning of the fiscal year for the date the list was compiled — an average of one function per week was held. Five successive functions were held from April 8 to April 18.

Of the 38 functions, only three were considered political events. The three events, which were paid for with campaign funds from the governor's re-election committee, were a barbecue last August for Dan Patterson, a law student returning to college to study for a master's degree; a barbecue last October for the girl's softball team sponsored by the governor; and a dinner in November for campaign workers.

Other functions had political overtones, but the tab was picked up by the state.

For example, in February Thompson was being blasted by his Democratic opponent, Michael Bakalis, for not working harder on behalf of the Equal Rights Amendment.

On Feb. 16 the first lady was the hostess for the Political Women's Caucus which honored the birthday anniversary of Susan B. Anthony, the women's rights advocate.

Many of the functions, though, are annual events for local organizations.

Reporters who work at the Statehouse Free Room, for example, are invited to the mansion for a reception during the Christmas season. (That policy was disrupted somewhat during the Walker administration.)

Reporters were also invited to the mansion for a reception following a dinner of the cast of "The Awakening Land."

Here's a rundown on the other social functions paid for by the state:

July — Reception for the governor's summer internship program.

August — Luncheon during the State Fair honoring veterans.

September — Coffee for the symphony guild.

October — Coffee for the YWCA.

November — Coffee and luncheon for John Trutter, author of "Governor Takes a Ride."

December — Reception for the board of the Abraham Lincoln Academy, receptions for the Springfield office staff.

February — Reception for the board of the Abraham Lincoln Academy.

March — Reception for the United Way and reception for Springfield's local group that promotes the arts.

April — Coffee for the Lincoln Academy Ball Committee; reception for the Springfield Symphony Guild; luncheons for the Illinois Bonds Drive; reception for Illinois Future Task Force; and reception for Illinois state Librarians Association.

Other groups, which paid for their own functions, include:

August — Dinner for the Scopus Committee.

September — Tea for engineers' wives.

October — Tea for lawyers' wives; dance for the Executive Mansion Association; and luncheon for the Rock River Valley chapter of the I.E.M.A.

November — Dinner for the Junior League.

December — Dinner for the Task Force.

January — Coffee for Newcomers.

News notes

Talks are resuming today at the National Stockyards, where the livestock handlers began a strike yesterday seeking higher pay.

Chiropractors have formed March, Inc., a political group whose acronym stands for Medical Antitrust Relief for Chiropractic and Humanity, an Indispensable New Cause-for-Action. They will go to Washington, D.C., on July 2-4 period to urge that services to chiropractic patients be included in federal health programs equally with other health services.

With repairs made by calling (toll-free) Bi-State Transit at 875-4144, local residents of the Rock River Valley Opera are being picked up at and returned to the Kroger rear parking lot. The bus originates in Belvidere.

Illinois Terminal Railroad Co. expects to complete repair work on its McKinley Bridge tracks by the end of 1979. Chief Engineer William Peterson testified Friday at an Illinois Commerce Commission hearing in Springfield. He said weather and materials have delayed the project. ICC Chief Engineer Ray Peterson raised safety questions but said the repair task is making adequate progress.
